

Study Abroad Fair – September 15 and 16, 2021

Partner Institutions Summary - Including Links to Program Details

Denmark & Sweden

DIS in Copenhagen and Stockholm (Wednesday 11:30 am and Thursday 1:30 pm)

Spend a Fall or Spring semester in either Stockholm or Denmark exploring Scandinavia and Europe as a core component of your studies, alongside students from many other American universities. Summer course schedules at DIS allow students to take classes in one or both locations.

England

Queen Mary University of London (Wednesday 10:00 am & Thursday 10:30 am)

Offering Fall or Spring semester study abroad opportunities, this highly-ranked UK university is a great choice for students hoping to concentrate on courses counting towards their major or minor and experience life in the vibrant East End of London. Study abroad students take their classes with students from QMUL.

University of Westminster (Wednesday 10:30 am)

Westminster is a modern UK university offering a central location in London and a range of options for students wishing to spend Fall, Spring or Summer abroad. Students can select courses from across a very wide range of subjects and study alongside Westminster students during the semester, and with international students during the summer. Westminster also offers optional special courses that focus on London and its history.

Fordham University London Center (Thursday 12:30 pm)

The London Center hosted by Fordham University offers American students the opportunity to study for a semester or year abroad in a central London location. Courses are offered in the areas of Business and Liberal Arts each term.

Scotland

University of Edinburgh (Thursday 10:00 am)

The University of Edinburgh was founded in the late 1500s and is consistently ranked as the most prestigious university in Scotland. Students studying abroad here for a Fall or Spring semester take classes with University of Edinburgh students and generally take courses counting towards their major or minor, with a wide range of subjects available to study.

Ireland

Mary Immaculate College (Thursday 9:30 am)

Mary Immaculate College is an exchange partner with the University of Scranton. Each semester, we are able to welcome students from MIC to our campus in Scranton and can send students to MIC. MIC has about 3,000 students and is located in Limerick, a city with a population of about 100,000. Students may study at MIC for a Fall or Spring semester. MIC offers courses in Education and Liberal Arts.

Spain

Saint Louis University in Madrid (Wednesday 10:30 am & Wednesday at 3:00 pm)

SLU Madrid is hosted by St Louis University, a Jesuit institution which has its main campus in Missouri. SLU Madrid was one of the first American university campuses in Spain and offers a wide range of courses taught in English. The majority of students are from America and are studying there for a semester or year abroad, but others are there for the full 4-years of their degree. Students may study at SLU Madrid for a Fall or Spring semester.

University of Navarra in Pamplona (Wednesday 2:00 pm & Thursday 2:00 pm)

This Spanish, Jesuit university's Institute for Language and Culture program in Pamplona is a favorite choice for Spanish majors and minors wishing to go abroad for a Summer, Fall or Spring semester. Students are well-supported by the University of Navarra as they experience and settle into Spanish culture during their time abroad.

Italy

Gonzaga in Florence (Wednesday 11:00 am)

Gonzaga University in Spokane, Washington hosts this program in Florence, where students can study abroad for a Fall or Spring semester. As the heart of the Renaissance, Florence has been a popular destination for American students wanting to explore Italy and its history in a beautiful city location. Courses are taught in English.

Universita Cattolica del Sacro Cuore in Milan (Wednesday 12:00 pm & Thursday 2:30 pm)

Cattolica offers a range of courses in English to students wishing to study abroad for Spring or Fall semester in Milan, the financial hub of Italy and a fashion and design capital of the world. Courses in international relations, media, journalism, sociology, psychology, business, and fashion are offered. Many other courses are available to students already fluent in Italian.

Loyola University of Chicago – John Felice Rome Center (Wednesday 12:30 pm)

Loyola University of Chicago hosts American students at their Rome campus for a Fall or Spring semester. The institute is located on Monte Mario, Rome's highest hill. The John Felice Rome Center has very modern facilities in the historic, capital city. Courses are taught in English.

The Umbra Institute in Perugia (Thursday 11:00 am)

Situated in the historic city of Perugia, near the rolling hills of Umbria and Tuscany, the Umbra Institute offers a unique experience for learning about Italian language and culture alongside students from all over the world. Many courses are uniquely focused on Italian history, food, architecture, and arts. Fall and Spring semester programs are available. Courses are taught in English. Students may elect to take immersive Italian language courses through the local university.

Spring Hill College Italy Center in Bologna (Thursday 12:00 pm)

Bologna is located in northern Italy in the Po River Valley, between Florence and Venice. It is a lively student town of Italian college students and remains one of Italy's best-kept secrets. The Italy Center of the American Jesuit university, Spring Hill College, focuses on a curriculum that integrates social justice issues into students' academic work and offers many travel opportunities as part of the learning experience. Courses are taught in English.

Worldwide

Center for International Educational Exchange (CIEE) (Thursday 3:00 pm)

CIEE hosts many institutes across the globe where students may study for a semester, summer, or intersession. Institutes are located in Paris, Toulouse, Rennes, Berlin, Amsterdam, Copenhagen, London, Rome, Prague, Seville, Barcelona, Singapore, Kyoto, Monteverde, Buenos Aires, Santiago and more. Some programs are completely taught in English, whereas other programs may have courses that are taught in the local language.

During the semester, the open-campus program allows students to mix locations from a selected group of CIEE institutes by combining 6-weeks periods of study. For example, Rome (6 weeks), then London (6 weeks), followed by Copenhagen (6 weeks) are combined to make a semester of 18 weeks to earn up to 18 credits. Or choose 2 locations and spend 12 weeks abroad earning 12 credits. In the open-campus program, courses are taught in English.
